

EDUCATION EVENING

People with Concurrent Disorders - a combination of mental illness and substance use disorder - often fall through the cracks. It is estimated that around 50% of people with an addiction or mental illness will also have the other: 27% with depression, 56% with bipolar disorder, 24% with anxiety disorders, 47% with schizophrenia.

The Centre for Concurrent Disorders is a community-based, outpatient service that supports individuals who present with both a chemical dependency disorder and a serious psychiatric illness and includes programs for youth, adults, alumni and families.
